When I tried to practice different inflection it was hard to change and emphasis to day the phrase. But each one of the times I said it came out different, I took about five recordings I had to listen to it my self over and over so I can get the right emphasis for each time I said the phrase. It was a difficult process but overall it was fun trying to use different expressions for each phrase whether it's brodem or sarcastic. The text excerpt was on SAT written by Steven Grant. I feel pretty confident with my recordings because i put time into each recording did each one more than once.
