

My Life

My name is Shaina Talleyrand and I was born in Haiti. I'm 15 years old, and

I have lived in Flatbush, Brooklyn for 2 years. In school I like to read and write, and when I'm out of school I like to go to the park with my friends. I'm particularly good at listening to people I became good at this because I like to pay attention to them. In the future, I would like to be an artist or a model I dream of to be famous.

I immigrated to New York 2 years ago. My life changed in many ways when I immigrated. The change I'm happiest about is to be in America with some of my family because without them I would not be here today. On the other hand, I'm sad that my sisters are in Haiti. Now I speak English a little bit but when I talk to people they tell me that I speak English very good but for me I think that I have to practice more so that I can read it and write it more. Which makes me very happy.

There was a time in my life when I experienced injustice. At my house in my country when you finish eating, you have to wash your dishes. This was the time when I finished eating my lunch I did wash my dishes but one of my sisters told my dad that I didn't wash my dish so after that she made my dad punish me for that. Me and her just like best friend I love her so much so even after she did that to me but I forgave. In my opinion, this was not fair because I never expected that one day she would do that.
