

Be yourself!!

So far central idea in "Una lista peligrosa" by Siobhan Vivian reminds me when sometimes we pretend to be another person to be seen before society. I know because once my friend did not like play soccer, but he want let everyone look at it and he decided enter the team soccer although he would not like it. In Una lista peligrosa's book Milo want to be popular in the High School and for that he joined the team basquetball although he would not like it, but he got tired and decided to do what he liked.
