

When everything's wrong!

So far, the themes in 12 again reminds me of something I saw. In this text she needs help when the only thing she wanted before is to know nothing of her life and return to the past. But right now she just wants help to return to her real life. She needs ingredients but her son is going to help her. And what I saw was that a woman was so fastured of her life and wanted to disappear. But then she realized and noticed that she was wrong that she was just having bad days.
