

Drugged

are plaguing our streets. They can be found throughout our schools, as well as the rest of the community. They are harming today's children who will grow up to be tomorrow's leaders. To an addict, the drugs, like money or gold, are highly sought after. The hold that they take in a person's life can be devastating. They can and will bring out the worst in people. These facts are why I, Zach Brewer, believe that there should be safeguards put in place to prevent people from acquiring and distributing narcotics. There should also be free help for those who've suffered from the effects of narcotics.
